Sir Marc Isambard Brunel FRS FRSE (25 April 1769 – 12 December 1849) was a French-born engineer who settled in England. He was married to Sophia Kingdom in 1799. In 1806 their son Isambard Kingdom Brunel was born. Marc Isambard himself preferred the name Isambard, but is generally known to history as Marc to avoid confusion with his more famous son Isambard Kingdom Brunel.

Model of 1850s Dockyard. This model in the Chatham Dockyard Historical Society Museum shows the yard as it would have appeared in the 1850s, which is much as it appears today. Seven covered slipways and four dry docks dominated the riverfront. Slipways were used for ship construction, and although the dry docks were used for major repairs, they were also used for construction of the largest ...

British and Irish locomotive manufacture for export. This file originated in Lowe's remarkable British steam locomotive builders (since withdrawn from Norfolk's dismal book collection) and its supplement, but has been augmented by reference to other studies, including some not cited by Lowe. This file excludes the workshops of railway companies which are treated separately.

The page in 'Where Ships Are Born' states that John commenced a shipbuilding business at North Sands in 1859. That date may well be incorrect, however, since this fine page, dating from 1891, references him (about 30% down) as being a builder at that location nine years earlier, in 1850, when John was just 18 years old only. The business was at that location until 1864, when Mr. Joseph L ...
